

“Give & Serve” in Action at the YP JAM 2008

We will have a chance to give and serve at the Jam by helping people meet two crucial needs: education and nutrition.

BackPack Attack

As children prepare to return to school, the need for proper school supplies becomes a critical issue. According to the United Way of Central Indiana, up to 78% of Indianapolis Public Schools (IPS) students start the school year with no or inadequate school supplies.

The BackPack Attack is an annual school supply drive that has collected and distributed over 1.7 million items in IPS and Marion County since 1999. You can help that number grow by contributing backpacks at the Jam.

Second Helpings

At Second Helpings, volunteers and staff rescue prepared and perishable food, re-prepare it into nutritious meals, and distribute those meals to organizations that feed hungry people. They also train adults for careers in the culinary field, helping to eliminate hunger at its source.

Second Helpings can use as much as 125 pounds of pasta a day. At the Jam, your boxed pasta donations will be gathered to create a mountain of food that will ultimately nourish, sustain and empower the individuals that Second Helpings serves.
